Endometriosis surgery fundamentals: a case-based approach

Course description

This course is targeted towards the intermediate MIS surgeon looking to develop or advance their skills in management of late stage endometriosis. The program provides a comprehensive and practical approach to the patient with symptomatic endometriosis, which includes the preoperative evaluation, pre-surgical planning, surgical approach and strategies to avoid complications.

Learning objectives

At the end of this workshop, the participant will be able to:

1. Produce an interdisciplinary care plan for patients with late-stage endometriosis in the context of chronic pelvic pain, infertility, and rectovaginal disease.
2. Describe a safe and practical approach to the surgical management of ovarian endometriosis and ureterolysis.
3. Demonstrate an understanding of surgical anatomy and technique towards the obliterated posterior cul de sac and excision of retrocervical nodule.
